

12-8-23

Science

It is still so hard for me to believe that we are 8 days into December! The whirlwind between Thanksgiving and Christmas is really something. I'm really feeling the squeeze with being gone for a month! Please know that I will miss being here doing what I love every day, but that I am leaving my students in very capable hands. I plan to return in mid-January (barring all goes well with surgery and physical therapy) and we'll pick right back up where Miss Beckwith and Mrs. Hall left off. I want you all to have a wonderful break and enjoy the holidays! See you in January 2024!

Writing/Reading

The last few weeks, we have circled back to Realistic Fiction. In reading realistic fiction, students should be able to start seeing a pattern emerge with a problem and a solution. Students should also recognize the dialogue (talking between characters) and the use of quotation marks.

Next week, students move into Biographies. Students will learn about people through biographies, and auto-biographies.

Math

Even though we finished multiplication and division today, please continue to practice these skills. The more we use them, the easier the process is stored in our long-term memory.

Next week, students will begin to study Geometry. Geometry is a fun unit, with a great deal of vocabulary. This unit will take the kids through my absence, testing right before I return.

We have been working on Waves of Sound. It has been interesting learning how sound waves move, and just what kind of damage can be done when those sound waves become large!

Angel Tree Donations

Woodview is collecting health and beauty supplies through Dec 15th. Please send in shampoo, conditioner, deodorant, toothbrushes, and toothpaste. Thank you!

Standing Specials

Monday- PE 2:25-3:15 Tuesday-Technology 2:25-3:15 Wednesday-Music 2:25-3:15 Thursday-STEAM 2:25-3:15, Friday-PE 2:25-3:15

Dates to Remember

12-22-23-Half day students
12-22-23-Breakfast party 8:35-9:15
12-25-23/1-5-23-Holiday Break

Have a wonderful holiday break with your family and friends! I'll see you back here in 2024!

Merry Christmas
& HAPPY NEW YEAR

~Leanne Feuerstein